Acting Chief, FBIS

Additional Communications Obligation for August, 1947.

During August, 1947, the FBIS London Bureau, at State Department suggestion, furnished the United States Embassy in Moscow with a daily roundup of broadcast material. On information from Signal Corps Teletype Directory, this material was filed via Signal Corps channels to Moscow in the belief that channel DHMC Berlin to Moscow was operative and available to FBIS without reimbursement. Without notification to FBIS, however, Signal Corps refilled these messages commercially to Moscow at 12½ cents per word, and it is understood that FBIS is to be charged for approximately 22,900 words to a total of approximately $2,875.00.

This service was discontinued immediately upon discovery of the commercial refill, and the charges will not recur.
